THE RIVAL ROUTES.

The Proposed Railroad to Connect the Ohio River with Coal Fields of Marion and Harrison Counties.

The Fairmont West Virginia, of this week, says: The citizens of this county and elsewhere who reside on the Binghamton route of the proposed railroad from the Ohio river to the West Fork river, are considerably elated over their flattering prospects. The survey of each of two competing routes has been completed, and it is shown that the Binghamton line, from the mouth of Binghamton creek, near the Harrison county line through this county and West Virginia to the West Fork river, is exactly 603 miles, while by the other (known as the "Ten Mile route") the distance to the Ohio river from a point higher up on the West Fork is 59 miles. The route first named is also said to possess advantages over the other in the matter of grading, and in other respects. By the Binghamton line the distance from Fairmont to the Ohio river will be 603 miles; by the other, about 700 miles. Whether the proposed road will be built soon, or ever, is of course undetermined, but there is foundation for the belief that the line is contemplated as a feeder for the Ohio River route, and that some important developments in that direction will be made next summer.

The Tyler county Star, speaking on the above subject, says: The man who believes all that has been said about the proposed road in the newspapers is credulous indeed. All unorthodox statements do not have to be taken with a grain of salt. All that can be positively stated at present is that the survey of two routes has been completed; that the route through West Virginia is the shorter, but much the more difficult and expensive to build and operate, while the route through Tyler passes through a well-settled and rich country, which would furnish far more local traffic than the shorter route; and it is certain that no route will be positively decided upon until it is ascertained what the cost will be and what the people will do in aid of building the road.

Hon. W. L. Boren returned from Parkersburg on Saturday, and while he makes no positive statement he does not reason for discouragement. The matter is not yet settled, no matter what Tom, Dick or Harry may say about it.

THE SURPLUS QUESTION.

The Union League Club Discusses the Abolition of the Internal Revenue.

New York, Jan. 13.—The Union League Club, at its meeting last evening, discussed the report of a majority of its Committee on Political Reform.

The report recommends the abolition of the Internal Revenue Department as the best method of reducing surplus revenue and of maintaining the great principle of protection to American industry; also, a heavy tax on the liquor traffic to defray the expense of the newspaper and crime caused by such traffic.

Theodore Roosevelt opposed the report. He formed a minority of one on the committee. He thought a tariff revision recommendation should be made. Joseph H. Choate took similar ground.

Ex-Judge Noah Davis favored the report, but suggested that action be postponed to allow further consideration in its way of much importance. He moved to lay the report on the table to be called up on thirty days' notice by the committee. The motion was unanimously adopted.

(Sealed)

The following is a copy of the original, in our possession, of a "warning" handed by young Thomas Ryan, son of the late Rev. T. P. Ryan, of Boone county, to a member of Jack Ryan's family, young Ryan having been led to believe that the Cunningham had had a hand in the murder of his father:

Jack Shafer you and your wife if you don't positively tell all you know about Dan Cunningham and like just as soon as you get this WE THE REGULATORS will burn your place for we know that you know a great deal about them men Shafer told some of her neighbors that she knew lots about Cunningham; that she would not tell till she had to. What Natural Gas Does.

Waynesburg Republican.

In the closing year Wheeling did more building than in any other year in her history. Drive a nail in that—INTELLIGENCER.

So did Steubenville. Does this look as if the Ohio Valley was losing its grip?

Steubenville Gazette.

Both of these places have had natural gas just a year. That tells the tale. Natural gas is the key to all booms in the East now. Should a good flow of gas be found in this vicinity Waynesburg "wouldn't know herself" in a year. Bring her on, gentlemen, bring her on. Let's have a boom.

Not the Man.

The following card explains itself:

LOOKE COUNTY, Jan. 8.

From the Editor of the Intelligence.

Sir: Whereas, there has been an item in your paper stating that a minister in Boone county has made thousands of dollars with an illicit distillery, which was supposed to be a pottery, I desire to say that as I am the only pottery in Boone county, the publication might be injurious to me. Please publish that I am not the man referred to.

Very truly yours,

Golf for Vice President.

Fairmont West Virginia.

With all his friends and admirers, both in and out of this State, the West Virginian would be proud of the honor of supporting for the office of Vice President of the United States the able and distinguished West Virginian Congressman, General Nathan Goff. Should it be the pleasure of the National Republican Convention to nominate him for that exalted position, this State will never again assist in the election of a Republican President.

THE KING'S ENGLISH.

A Critic Criticized—Kaiser's Remarks to Aut Wiedersheim.

To the Editor of the Intelligence.

Sir:—Your critic, "Aut Wiedersheim," has recently, I suspect, been giving so much of his attention to the study of Haupt's German course, that he has become somewhat rusty in his rhetoric, otherwise he would not speak of "sentences into which unnatural lives were breathed by careless pens." Pens do not breathe, hence the rhetorical figure is spoiled, just as many a college sophomore spoils his efforts at composition by indulging a passion for theatrical flights, at the expense not only of good English, but of good sense as well.

But the rhetoric of A. W. is so very peculiar as to be beyond criticism. He makes no effort to write good English, or possibly cannot owing to mental confusion caused by his German. When he attempts to seriously improve on Gov. Foraker, however, he "kicks up" badly. If he has read my communication of yesterday he has learned that he has left untouched the words requiring correction, and has rendered incorrect what should have been left alone.

A. W. succeeds in slightly improving the Spectator's English, but has not touched the vital point. I venture to suggest this: "If we look as widely as possible at the whole subject treated by Mr. Balfour, we shall find that his language is not in truth, come to the question, 'what is the primary object of ordinary reading and study?'"

While we are criticizing, may I suggest that you exclude from your paper such caricatures as this from your Baltimore local: "J. W., of near Belmont, this county," etc.
